Yankee Boxers Revelation to Englishmen.

Although the English army boxers, as the result of a singular method of computing points, won the Albert Hall competition in London the performances of the small but able American team must have been an eye opener to the English patrons of the sport. Mike O'Dowd, the world's middleweight champion, by defeating three of the best light heavyweights in the British service, created a sensation, while Ratner, McGoorty, Moore and others made a lasting impression on the spectators.
